

PERISHED DUCO

NOT ONE BUT TWO TRACTOR UNITS - URGENT FIX NEEDED

Red and Yellow

When a client has a fleet in the primary colors, they look great for a while... but when the fade eventually comes, then an overall corporate image gets jaded fast!

Unless the base colors have added protection, then over time with general wear and tear, chalkiness will detract from the presentation.

With a Nyalic wash-down with soap and water and creation of a neutral surface, most automotive paints can be resurrected.

These Mercedes powered freight-liners operate in Northern West Australia - in the Karratha region where inhospitable conditions daily hammer any painted surface. By Nyalic coating these tractor units protects from salt and ultra violet rays. Nyalic even protects from the ravage of nickel eating through the aluminum on the diesel fuel tanks. A very high cost item which keeps these vehicles off the road.
